FIRST SUNDAY OF LENT

In today's Gospel, the devil tests Jesus, subjecting the divine Son to a completely human experience, temptation. Jesus is led into the desert. For Jesus' contemporaries, the wilderness served a dual purpose; there one might encounter temptation; there one might encounter God. The first reading demonstrates both realities. Moses makes a fitting response to the God who guarded Israel in the wilderness: he offers grateful praise and adoration. In his desert experience, Jesus too undergoes testing. Like Moses, Jesus knows the better way: I serve and worship God alone, the one power greater than evil.
